

Escola Nacional de Ciências Estatísticas

Masters and PhD Programs in Population, Territory and Public Statistics

Selection Process – Class of 2019

The Postgraduate program in Population, Territory and Public Statistics of the National School of Statistics (Escola Nacional de Ciências Estatísticas - ENCE), offers Masters and PhD courses. It aims to promote the training of researchers and professionals to carry out and teaching activities, who are capable of developing and applying theoretical approaches, models and methods for the analysis of socio-spatial processes, and for the production of information and public statistics to expand knowledge of population and territorial reality and their dynamics.

Calendar

Application: from August 20 to 05 October, 2018

Result of the 1st and 2nd phases: November 19, 2018

Announcement of the final result: December 10, 2018

Number of admissions: até up to 24 for Master and up to 10 for PhD

Written examinations: October 15, 2018

Interviews: December 03 and 04, 2018

Pre-Enrolment (on line): December 13 and 14, 2018

Starting date: March 2019

Classes are taught in Portuguese. The selection process exams are to be answered in Portuguese or Spanish.

Scholarships

ENCE's postgraduate program requires full time dedication and provides funding from CAPES or IBGE for those without remuneration from employment, retirement or pension.

More information:

Escola Nacional de Ciências Estatísticas - Rua André Cavalcanti, 106, sala 109 - Bairro de Fátima, Rio de Janeiro, CEP 20231-050

Tels: (55+21) 2142-4691 / 2142-4696 • Email: secretaria.cpgence@ibge.gov.br

Visit www.ence.ibge.gov.br for more information.